                    - Lucy only feels 2 minds in the room
                    - contrary to with some dream she had before
                    - no exterior force
                    - usually she feels lifted but but here she felt pushed down
                    - Quiwynn's stone feels heavier too
                    - when Quiwynn touches Lucy it stops
                - Quiwynn wrongly assumed that sleeping in the same room as Lucy would be calm
    - morning
        - Lucy has a bandage on her hand
            - when asked she explains the night's experiment
            - Figuel kind of scolds her for her reckless behavior
            - no mention of the weight episode is made
        - James has a letter and a sealed enveloppe in front of his door
            - to his dismay it's not a fan letter
        - from Prolix

            > “Hey folks,

> Soo, I was telling my bosses about what happend in Bazzoxan and what you told me about what Aloysia was up to. They were very interested in what you did and what it would mean for their expeditions. I hope you dont mind but I kinda Lied … I might have said that you were so fond of our time together than you were wanting to join the allegiance of allsight. Any chance we can keep the lie between us as they were quite impressed with my performance (Bazzoxan was one of my last chances I think)
> Sorry
> Prolix

    - sealed letter

> “Allegiance hopefuls,
> We need you to pick up and deliver a marble figurine of an elephant that was stolen from us. We have located it at a curio shop called the Bone Garden in the Suncut Bazaar and arranged for the proprietor, Rerosha, to hand over the merchandise without a fuss. Simply bring the figurine to Gatekeeper Raashid at the Crystal Chateau, and your task is complete.
> Welcome in advance to the team!—Professor Lymmle Wist, Allegiance of Allsight

- to the bazzar
    - into the Bone Garden
        - James asks Rerosha for the figurine
            - it's a small white figurine with red streaks all across it
            - James gets it
            - it grows in size
        - the figurines springs to life into an elephant
