Seraph's Embrace is a beautifully crafted longsword, its blade shining with a faint ethereal glow reminiscent of the dawn's first light. The hilt is adorned with intricate engravings depicting scenes of angelic figures ascending to the heavens, giving the weapon an aura of divine grace.

- After identification

In addition to its modest +1 enhancement bonus to attack and damage rolls, Seraph's Embrace possesses a unique ribbon feature that reflects its connection to celestial beings. Once per day, when the wielder speaks a command word, the sword emits a soft, comforting radiance that envelops allies within a 10-foot radius. This radiance provides a soothing effect, granting those within its glow advantage on saving throws against fear effects and bolstering their resolve in the face of adversity.

Passive: Furthermore, Seraph's Embrace has a passive ability to detect the presence of fiends and undead within 30 feet of its wielder. When such creatures are nearby, the sword emits a subtle, but discernible, hum, alerting its bearer to the potential danger lurking in the shadows.
